

The Age of Sustainable Development

Jeffrey D. Sachs

Director, The Earth Institute

Quetelet Professor of Sustainable Development

Professor of Health Policy & Management, Columbia University

Jeffrey D. Sachs is a world-renowned economics professor, leader in sustainable development, best-selling author and syndicated columnist. He is special adviser to UN Secretary General Ban Ki-moon on the Millennium Development Goals, director of the UN Sustainable Development Solutions Network, as well as cofounder and director of the Millennium Villages Project.

Over the past ten years, he has authored The End of Poverty; Common Wealth: Economics for a Crowded Planet; The Price of Civilization; To Move the World: JFK's Quest for Peace and, most recently, The Age of Sustainable Development, described by E.O. Wilson as the "most important book in current circulation."

In this talk, Sachs will argue that attaining sustainability is our highest priority and will outline the best ways to reach that mighty goal.

This event is co-sponsored by the Center for Law and Global Affairs.

Wednesday
April 22, 2015
5:00 p.m. Lecture
Reception to follow

Sandra Day O'Connor
College of Law
Armstrong Hall
Arizona State University
Tempe Campus

RSVP: sustainability.asu.edu/events